TO THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES:

In accordance with the Federal Advisory Committee Act, I am pleased to transmit the Eleventh Annual Report on Federal Advisory Committees.

In 1982, advisory committees afforded a unique opportunity for over 19,000 private citizens of all backgrounds to provide valued and needed counsel to Federal officials in establishing policies and improving operations of the government.

In keeping with the strong commitment of this Administration to promote voluntary citizen participation in government, by year end the number of chartered advisory committees increased by three percent over the previous year, reaching the highest level since 1976. At the same time, government agencies utilizing these committees achieved a further overall reduction in committee operating costs. In 1982, committee operating costs totaled $74 million, 7.5 percent lower than in 1981, and 15.2 percent below comparable 1980 levels.

In 1983, the opportunity exists for additional improvements in the management and cost-effectiveness of advisory committees. New guidance and information prepared by the General Services Administration and contained in this report will provide agency management with the ability to realize this opportunity.

Consistent with my belief that the strength of this Nation flows from the talent and resourcefulness of its people, we shall foster and support the continued active use of advisory committees in the government decision-making process.

Dear Mr. President:

I am pleased to submit the Eleventh Annual Report on Federal Advisory Committees for your consideration and transmittal to the Congress.

This report expands those of previous years by providing new comparative statistical data about advisory committees and their parent agencies. It also discusses the progress made during the past year in implementing your policy objectives and GSA's management initiatives for advisory committees and outlines opportunities for further improvements.

In the annual report of one year ago, Mr. President, you directed Federal agencies to reduce advisory committee costs by ten percent in 1982. This was to be in addition to the five percent cost reduction you had directed for 1981. I am pleased to inform you that Executive departments and agencies have achieved the objective of an overall 15.2 percent cost reduction for the two year period, making this the first substantial cost reduction in the ten year history of this program.

To further your objectives, during the past year GSA has developed a comprehensive new regulation on advisory committee management to promote the more effective use of advisory committees by Federal agencies. This regulation incorporates our recommendations contained in last year's annual report including:

- Elimination of compensation for advisory committee members, except where required by law or when necessary to acquire technical expertise or balanced membership not otherwise available. GSA supports the objective of the Federal Advisory Committee Act to provide for the more efficient use of advisory committees, as well as your pledge to "restore in our time, the American spirit of voluntary service...." GSA believes a sufficient number of citizens of all backgrounds and qualifications can be found to provide advice and recommendations to the Federal Government through voluntary service on advisory committees. This policy is supported by the statistical data reported by agencies themselves where many agencies having a "no-compensation" policy are able to use advisory committees effectively and are able to attract expertise and broad citizen participation, as compared to other agencies which routinely compensate most or all persons appointed to their advisory committees. Congress may wish to consider reviewing authorizing legislation for those advisory committees which are required by law to compensate members, thereby giving agencies the opportunity to recruit members on a voluntary service basis. Compensation of non-Federal advisory committee members totaled $5.4 million in 1982.

- Establishment of guidelines to limit the size of committees. GSA has recommended to Federal agencies that the size of an advisory committee should be determined by its mission, with advisory committees having an agencywide function generally being limited to 25 members and committees with a specialized task being limited to 12 members. The size of any advisory committee directly affects its operating costs, and the application of this guidance as a general standard can reduce advisory committee expenditures government-wide.
- Management guidance to agency officials including suggestions to involve key management personnel of the agency in committee meetings, reports, and agendas; solicit comments from advisory committee members on the activities and effectiveness of the committees; monitor the attendance of committee members to assure broad and balanced participation; and eliminate those committees which are essentially inactive. In 1982, for example, 21 percent or 194 advisory committees totaled expenses of over $1.25 million without having a meeting of the actual committees.

This past year GSA also obtained legislation from the Congress changing the annual report cycle from a calendar year to a fiscal year basis. This means agencies can now maintain advisory committee records consistent with their budget cycle. Also, GSA consolidated the two reports on advisory committees requested each year from agencies into a single report which is estimated to have reduced the workload of agencies in preparing committee reports by 30%.

In implementing our initiatives to improve committee management, GSA appreciates the counsel and support received from the Federal Advisory Committee Management Association, the Charles Kettering Foundation, and the Administrative Conference of the United States.

We believe that Federal advisory committees are the single most important mechanism for promoting active citizen involvement in the executive branch decision-making process. GSA will continue to provide the leadership to assist agencies in improving the effectiveness and efficiency of Federal advisory committees.

Respectfully,

Gerald P. Carman
Administrator

INTRODUCTION

Introduction

This is the Eleventh Annual Report of the President to the Congress, covering calendar year 1982 on the activities, status, and changes in the composition of Federal Advisory Committees.* Advisory committees serve the American people by allowing the involvement of private citizens in the decision-making process of government, providing valuable information and advice which otherwise might not be available. Advisory committees provide broad policy advice on major national issues, develop specific technical recommendations on particular problems, or review and recommend action on grant requests.

Congress enacted the Federal Advisory Committee Act of 1972 as a means of structuring and monitoring the activities of groups established or utilized by agencies as a source of advice. The General Services Administration (GSA) is responsible for monitoring agency management of advisory committees and reviewing the effectiveness and continued need for individual committees. To meet these responsibilities, the GSA's Committee Management Secretariat conducts an annual comprehensive review of all committees and prepares this report for the President on the basis of that review.

The report for calendar year 1982 is changed substantially from reports of previous years through the inclusion of additional statistical data and analytical comparisons of agency use of advisory committees. This information is intended to support the President in setting advisory committee policy objectives for the executive branch, assist the agencies in the management and control of their own advisory committees, and provide annual data to the Congress of the United States.

Overview of Advisory Committees

By year-end 1982, the number of Federal advisory committees utilized by executive branch officials increased 3 percent over 1981, reaching the highest level since 1976. (See Chart I).

Chart I

*This report is prepared in accordance with Section 2 of Executive Order No. 12024 to fulfill the requirements of Section 6(c) of the Federal Advisory Committee Act, as amended (Public Law 92-463, 5 U.S.C., App.). This is a summary and analysis of the information furnished by Federal departments and agencies which is forwarded separately to the Congress.

In 1982, 95 new committees were established more than offsetting the 70 committees terminated, for a net increase of 25. The increase in committees reflects agency support of the policy of the Administration to promote public/private sector partnership in the decision-making and problem-solving activities of government. Chart IA compares utilization of advisory committees in 1981 and 1982.

Of the total number of advisory committees, nearly three-quarters have been established as a result of some type of legislative sponsorship. As shown in Chart II, of the 948 advisory committees in existence at any time during 1982, nearly half were directed by the Congress. An additional 249 committees or 26 percent were authorized, although not required by the Congress. This is a major factor to be considered when analyzing activities and trends in advisory committee management.

Although the number of committees increased in 1982, total committee membership remained relatively constant. This trend is consistent with GSA's guidance to improve cost-effectiveness of advisory committees. During August of 1982, GSA Administrator Gerald Carmen asked agencies to reduce the size of their advisory committees to that required by the committee's function. (See Appendix C.) Consistent with the need to achieve balanced membership and required technical expertise, it was recommended that membership be limited to 25 persons for committees serving a general agencywide purpose, and 12 persons for committees with a special or limited purpose.

Expenditures for Advisory Committees

Total expenditures to operate and support advisory committees in calendar year 1982 were $74.1 million, a reduction of $6 million or 8.3 percent from 1981, and $13.3 million or 15.2 percent below comparable 1980 levels. These costs, as reported by individual agencies, include compensation, travel and per diem allowances for committee members (where paid), staff support costs (including salaries and other expenses for Federal employees directly supporting the committees), consultant fees, space, printing, and supplies.

As shown in Chart III, actual expenditures are substantially below the peak reached in 1979. In real terms which exclude the effects of inflation (constant 1972 dollars), advisory committee expenditures in 1979 had grown to almost double that of seven years earlier. By 1982, expenditures were returning to 1972 levels while, at the same time the number of advisory committees in existence at year end was the highest in six years. In summary, Federal agencies are doing more with less resources.

Chart III
Federal Advisory Committee Costs
1972 to 1982

In 1982, as in recent years, over 60 percent of total advisory committee expenditures are accounted for by five departments and agencies. (See Chart IV). The Department of Health and Human Services alone spent $32 million, or over 42 percent of total Federal advisory committee expenditures. Chart IVA summarizes the five agencies having the largest expenditures for advisory committees, including their contribution to the overall 1982 cost reduction.

The major contributors to the overall 1982 cost reduction were the Department of Defense with a 38 percent reduction of $1.9 million and the Department of Commerce with a 22 percent reduction of $1.6 million. Among other departments and agencies, the Department of Labor experienced a reduction of $1.2 million in its 1982 advisory committee costs, and the independent National Commission on Social Security established by Congress in 1979 terminated in April of 1981, resulting in a cost reduction of $1.2 million from 1981 to 1982. Relative changes in 1981 costs to 1982 costs for each agency are detailed in Appendix F.

Chart V provides three-year summary information for advisory committees by cost category, adjusted to exclude the effects of newly established or terminated committees. As shown in this chart, almost half of the expense of advisory committees is for compensation of Federal employees whose positions are justified, in whole or in part, by providing staff support to advisory committees. Travel expenses for these employees are another major expense. In 1982, the only cost categories showing declines were travel expense and facility rental.

Although agencies are projecting cost increases in nearly all categories for 1983, GSA believes implementation of its new regulation on advisory committee management will guide and assist agencies in curbing costs, particularly for compensation and travel of advisory committee members and staff. (See Appendix D).

Efficiency of Advisory Committees

In 1982, executive branch agencies reduced the average per meeting cost of their advisory committees to $22,100, a 5 percent reduction from 1981. The disparity in meeting costs from committee to committee and agency to agency may reflect the austerity of meeting arrangements, policies of compensating committee members, and the level of control by management over staff activities and costs expended on committee matters.

The need for close involvement in advisory committee activities by senior agency management officials is important to avoid wasteful use of government resources. As shown in Chart VI, the average cost per member was about $3,800 incurred by an advisory committee holding an average of three or four meetings a year. Certain committees had member costs exceeding $100,000 per person, which suggests that it might be less expensive in some circumstances for the Government to employ these individuals full time. Other committees show moderate to high costs ranging from $13,000 to $62,000 per member. Per member meeting costs are greatly affected by staff costs assigned to a committee, including staff time of Federal employees spent in preparations for advisory committee meetings.

In 1982, the average cost of an advisory committee was $78,200. As shown in Chart VI, however, many agencies find advisory committees a cost-effective and relatively inexpensive method for receiving counsel, advice, and information. About half of the agencies using advisory committees expend less than $50,000 per committee. Since advisory committees provide a unique method of receiving "balanced" counsel on an issue or technical problem of concern to an agency, this level generally seems appropriate compared with alternative methods of obtaining consulting services or soliciting input on a continuing basis from interested parties. Similar cost data on all agencies using advisory committees is available in Appendix F.

Federal advisory committees held a total of 3,352 meetings in 1982, a 3 percent decline from the previous year. The frequency of advisory committee meetings is shown in Chart VII. Since committee costs ought to bear some relationship to committee size and activity, it can be presumed a committee with a large membership will cost more to operate than a committee with few members. Likewise, a committee holding more meetings will cost more because of increased travel and per diem expenses of members, consultant expenses, etc. Conversely, that cost would presumably decline as committee activity reached zero. Yet, in 1982, Federal agencies reported a total cost of $1.25 billion for their advisory committees which never met. Of this total, the Department of Health and Human Services ascribed a cost of $830,000 to 33 of its committees which never met, with the balance of over $400,000 being divided among the 161 inactive committees located throughout the other Federal departments and agencies. Agencies having advisory committees which did not meet are listed in Chart VIII.

Although some committees did not meet during 1982 because they were newly established and did not have sufficient time to begin functioning before the end of the year, or they completed their mission but require legislation to abolish, or they meet intermittently and experienced a period of short-term inactivity, GSA believes in general these data represent an opportunity for cost savings on the part of the agencies involved. In 1983, GSA will closely scrutinize the nearly one-quarter of the committees which did not meet to determine if they should be abolished, merged, or better utilized.

In summary, the efficiency of an advisory committee is at least partially measured by its frequency of meetings and per member and per meeting costs of operation. Since all departments and agencies draw upon recognized experts and persons who are distinguished in their field, GSA believes the data shown represent an opportunity for certain agencies to benefit from the experience of others that demonstrate an ability to achieve relatively low operating cost ratios.

Compensation of Advisory Committee Members

A major change for the Federal advisory committee program is a provision in the new GSA regulation eliminating compensation for advisory committee members except where required by law or when necessary on an exception basis to achieve balanced membership or acquire technical expertise not otherwise available. This provision supports the objective of the Congress to achieve more efficient use of advisory committees as well as the President's commitment to "restore in our time, the American spirit of voluntary service...."

Charts IX and X show a positive correlation between activity and voluntary service, putting into question the premise that qualified persons cannot be recruited to membership without compensation. In practice, except when specifically directed or authorized by law, compensation of committee members appears to be the exception rather than the rule.

Chart XI reveals that nearly half of all agencies do not compensate advisory committee members, and that only 7,700 out of nearly 19,000 members are compensated. In light of these averages, it is particularly interesting to note that some agencies have a policy of compensating 100% of their advisory committee members. The Department of Health and Human Services alone compensates all 100% of its 3,992 advisory committee members, over 51 percent of all compensated advisory committee members. The addition of the National Endowment for the Arts, the National Endowment for the Humanities, and the National Science Foundation, all of which reported compensating 100 percent of their advisory committee members, to this total accounts for over 80 percent of all members compensated for serving on Federal advisory committees.

GSA believes that in certain instances compensation of persons whose services are necessary to an advisory committee is unavoidable, and agencies should have the flexibility to recruit the services of consultants, technical experts, or persons whose participation is essential to balanced membership. But, it is generally true that persons who give their services on a voluntary basis are motivated by a sense of service and duty, and are conscientious in their personal commitment to a project. Because the record is replete with the names of distinguished and talented persons of all backgrounds who have already served as advisory committee members on a noncompensated basis, GSA believes that a general no-compensation policy is cost-efficient and warranted out of a sense of fairness and equity of treatment. Each advisory committee member should regard the opportunity to participate on advisory committees as an honor and privilege. In many instances, especially in academic and scientific professions, advisory committee membership is regarded as a mark of professional achievement and distinction.

GSA will actively pursue the application of this policy throughout the Government and believes Federal departments and agencies will cooperate in its implementation.

Management of Advisory Committees

The preceding sections have considered advisory committee performance on the basis of cost comparisons, components, and trends. Although this is important, at the heart of all advisory committee activity lies the question of what is being accomplished by agencies with the resources they are expending.

To assist agencies in their management of advisory committees, both from the perspective of controlling cost and improving efficiency, in August of 1982, the Administrator of General Services issued a memorandum to Federal agencies providing specific recommendations on advisory committee management. (See Appendix C). These recommendations have subsequently been incorporated into the new GSA regulation on advisory committees. (See Appendix D).

Key to the effectiveness of an advisory committee is the interest and participation in its activities by senior management of the host agency. For an advisory committee to operate in a vacuum, for it to have a poorly defined agenda, or for it to produce a report that no one will read results in a poor investment of public funds. To avoid these and similar problems, GSA strongly supports a number of specific actions that can be taken by agency executives to more effectively utilize their advisory committees. Before the first meeting of an advisory committee is held, responsible agency executives should submit to committee members, consultants, and staff a written statement listing the purpose, objectives, and expected accomplishments for the committee. In other words, advisory committee members ought to clearly understand the mission before them.

For committees of an ongoing nature, agency executives should solicit in writing or in a formal meeting at least annually the views of committee members on the effectiveness, activities, and management of the committee, including recommendations for improvement.

Agency executives should also become involved in committee meetings, including reviewing reports and establishing agendas. Likewise, they should evaluate the committee membership to determine if the committee is at the right size to do the job, and where appropriate to adjust membership to the levels recommended by GSA. Further, they should take an interest in the performance and contributions of individual advisory committee members and consider replacing members who miss a substantial number of scheduled committee meetings.

GSA also urges agency management to carefully examine the practice of closing advisory committee meetings to the public. Although a closed meeting may be necessary because of reasons of national security or in certain other instances specified by law, Chart XII reveals that committees established by agency authority are most likely to close part or all of their meetings. The Federal Advisory Committee Act clearly states in Section 10(a), "Each advisory committee meeting shall be open to the public." The Congress further underscored its interest in public access to and awareness of advisory committee proceedings by requiring that advance notices of all meetings be published in the Federal Register. Agency senior executives should, therefore, determine if meetings previously held closed can be opened in full or at least partially to the public in the future. Public participation in advisory committee activities is an important way to assure that a committee's discussions will be balanced in viewpoints to be considered.

In summary, GSA believes the effectiveness and contributions of advisory committees are directly correlated to the interest and support of senior agency management. Used to their best potential, committees can be a tremendous bargain as well as a model of public-private partnership working to solve the Nation's problems.

For Further Information About Federal Advisory Committees

Following this introduction, the Eleventh Annual Report includes an alphabetical listing as well as a listing by agency of all Federal advisory committees which existed during all or part of calendar year 1982. The report also includes the names and telephone numbers of the professional committee management staff personnel for each department and agency using advisory committees.

A series of appendices at the end of the report include the text of the Federal Advisory Committee Act, as amended; Executive Order No. 12024; the GSA Administrator's letter of August, 1982 to Federal agencies; the new GSA regulation on advisory committee management; copies of the forms completed by departments and agencies which provided the information upon which this report is based; and additional summary charts and tables. No information provided by Federal agencies has been excluded from this report for reasons of national security.

Further information concerning Federal advisory committees may be obtained by contacting the committee management officer within each department or agency, or from the GSA Committee Management Secretariat (NXC); National Archives and Records Service; General Services Administration; Washington, DC 20408 (Telephone: (202) 523-4884). A complete set of forms and documents used in completing this report is also on file and available for public inspection at the Library of Congress; Washington, DC.

This report was prepared under the supervision of Charles S. Davis III, Associate Administrator for Policy and Management Systems by Ronald L. Martinson, Special Assistant to the Archivist (Committee Management), and the Committee Management Secretariat staff Charles F. Howton, Andrea D. Washington, Rose Calbert Findley, and Ron Evans. Acknowledgement is also given for the technical assistance and other contributions to the report made by George N. Scaboo, Lawrence S. Cohan, Larry Barnes, John E. (Jeb) Byrne, Ernest J. Public Law 92-463
92nd Congress, H. R. 4383
October 6, 1972

An Act

86 STAT., 770

To authorize the establishment of a system governing the creation and operation of advisory committees in the executive branch of the Federal Government, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That this Act may be cited as the "Federal Advisory Committee Act".

Federal Advisory Committee Act.

FINDINGS AND PURPOSES

SEC. 2. (a) The Congress finds that there are numerous committees, boards, commissions, councils, and similar groups which have been established to advise officers and agencies in the executive branch of the Federal Government and that they are frequently a useful and beneficial means of furnishing expert advice, ideas, and diverse opinions to the Federal Government.

(b) The Congress further finds and declares that—

- (1) the need for many existing advisory committees has not been adequately reviewed;
- (2) new advisory committees should be established only when they are determined to be essential and their number should be kept to the minimum necessary;
- (3) advisory committees should be terminated when they are no longer carrying out the purposes for which they were established;
- (4) standards and uniform procedures should govern the establishment, operation, administration, and duration of advisory committees;
- (5) the Congress and the public should be kept informed with respect to the number, purpose, membership, activities, and cost of advisory committees; and
- (6) the function of advisory committees should be advisory only, and that all matters under their consideration should be determined, in accordance with law, by the official, agency, or officer involved.

DEFINITIONS

SEC. 3. For the purpose of this Act—

- (1) The term "Director" means the Director of the Office of Management and Budget.
- (2) The term "advisory committee" means any committee, board, commission, council, conference, panel, task force, or other similar group, or any subcommittee or other subgroup thereof (hereafter in this paragraph referred to as "committee"), which is—

- (A) established by statute or reorganization plan, or
- (B) established or utilized by the President, or
- (C) established or utilized by one or more agencies, in the interest of obtaining advice or recommendations for the President or one or more agencies or officers of the Federal Government, except that such term excludes (i) the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, (ii) the Commission on Government Procurement, and (iii) any committee which is composed wholly of full-time officers or employees of the Federal Government.

(3) The term "agency" has the same meaning as in section 551(1) of title 5, United States Code.

(4) The term "Presidential advisory committee" means an advisory committee which advises the President.

APPLICABILITY

Sec. 4. (a) The provisions of this Act or of any rule, order, or regulation promulgated under this Act shall apply to each advisory committee except to the extent that any Act of Congress establishing any such advisory committee specifically provides otherwise.

Restrictions.

(b) Nothing in this Act shall be construed to apply to any advisory committee established or utilized by—

- (1) the Central Intelligence Agency; or
- (2) the Federal Reserve System.

(c) Nothing in this Act shall be construed to apply to any local civic group whose primary function is that of rendering a public service with respect to a Federal program, or any State or local committee, council, board, commission, or similar group established to advise or make recommendations to State or local officials or agencies.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES

Review.

Sec. 5. (a) In the exercise of its legislative review function, each standing committee of the Senate and the House of Representatives shall make a continuing review of the activities of each advisory committee under its jurisdiction to determine whether such advisory committee should be abolished or merged with any other advisory committee, whether the responsibilities of such advisory committee should be revised, and whether such advisory committee performs a necessary function not already being performed. Each such standing committee shall take appropriate action to obtain the enactment of legislation necessary to carry out the purpose of this subsection.

Outlines.

(b) In considering legislation establishing, or authorizing the establishment of any advisory committee, each standing committee of the Senate and of the House of Representatives shall determine, and report such determination to the Senate or to the House of Representatives, as the case may be, whether the functions of the proposed advisory committee are being or could be performed by one or more agencies or by an advisory committee already in existence, or by enlarging the mandate of an existing advisory committee. Any such legislation shall—

- (1) contain a clearly defined purpose for the advisory committee;
- (2) require the membership of the advisory committee to be fairly balanced in terms of the points of view represented and the functions to be performed by the advisory committee;
- (3) contain appropriate provisions to assure that the advice and recommendations of the advisory committee will not be inappropriately influenced by the appointing authority or by any special interest, but will instead be the result of the advisory committee's independent judgment;
- (4) contain provisions dealing with authorization of appropriations, the date for submission of reports (if any), the duration of the advisory committee, and the publication of reports and other materials, to the extent that the standing committee determines the provisions of section 10 of this Act to be inadequate; and

(5) contain provisions which will assure that the advisory committee will have adequate staff (either supplied by an agency or employed by it), will be provided adequate quarters, and will have funds available to meet its other necessary expenses.

(c) To the extent they are applicable, the guidelines set out in subsection (b) of this section shall be followed by the President, agency heads, or other Federal officials in creating an advisory committee.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE PRESIDENT

SEC. 6. (a) The President may delegate responsibility for evaluating and taking action, where appropriate, with respect to all public recommendations made to him by Presidential advisory committees.

(b) Within one year after a Presidential advisory committee has submitted a public report to the President, the President or his delegate shall make a report to the Congress stating either his proposals for action or his reasons for inaction, with respect to the recommendations contained in the public report.

Report to Congress.

(c) The President shall, not later than March 31 of each calendar year (after the year in which this Act is enacted), make an annual report to the Congress on the activities, status, and changes in the composition of advisory committees in existence during the preceding calendar year. The report shall contain the name of every advisory committee, the date of and authority for its creation, its termination date or the date it is to make a report, its functions, a reference to the reports it has submitted, a statement of whether it is an ad hoc or continuing body, the dates of its meetings, the names and occupations of its current members, and the total estimated annual cost to the United States to fund, service, supply, and maintain such committee. Such report shall include a list of those advisory committees abolished by the President, and in the case of advisory committees established by statute, a list of those advisory committees which the President recommends be abolished together with his reasons therefor. The President shall exclude from this report any information which, in his judgment, should be withheld for reasons of national security, and he shall include in such report a statement that such information is excluded.

Annual report to Congress.

Exclusion.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE DIRECTOR, OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET

SEC. 7. (a) The Director shall establish and maintain within the Office of Management and Budget a Committee Management Secretariat, which shall be responsible for all matters relating to advisory committees.

Committee Management Secretariat. Establishment.

(b) The Director shall, immediately after the enactment of this Act, institute a comprehensive review of the activities and responsibilities of each advisory committee to determine—

Review.

- (1) whether such committee is carrying out its purpose;
- (2) whether, consistent with the provisions of applicable statutes, the responsibilities assigned to it should be revised;
- (3) whether it should be merged with other advisory committees; or
- (4) whether it should be abolished.

The Director may from time to time request such information as he deems necessary to carry out his functions under this subsection. Upon the completion of the Director's review he shall make recommendations to the President and to either the agency head or the Congress with respect to action he believes should be taken. Thereafter, the Director shall carry out a similar review annually. Agency heads shall cooperate with the Director in making the reviews required by this subsection.

Recommendations to President and Congress.

Agency cooperation.

Performance
guidelines.

(c) The Director shall prescribe administrative guidelines and management controls applicable to advisory committees, and, to the maximum extent feasible, provide advice, assistance, and guidance to advisory committees to improve their performance. In carrying out his functions under this subsection, the Director shall consider the recommendations of each agency head with respect to means of improving the performance of advisory committees whose duties are related to such agency.

Uniform pay
guidelines.

(d) (1) The Director, after study and consultation with the Civil Service Commission, shall establish guidelines with respect to uniform fair rates of pay for comparable services of members, staffs, and consultants of advisory committees in a manner which gives appropriate recognition to the responsibilities and qualifications required and other relevant factors. Such regulations shall provide that—

(A) no member of any advisory committee or of the staff of any advisory committee shall receive compensation at a rate in excess of the rate specified for GS-18 of the General Schedule under section 5332 of title 5, United States Code; and Travel expenses.

(B) such members, while engaged in the performance of their duties away from their homes or regular places of business, may be allowed travel expenses, including per diem in lieu of subsistence, as authorized by section 5703 of title 5, United States Code, for persons employed intermittently in the Government service.

80 Stat. 499;
83 Stat. 190.

(2) Nothing in this subsection shall prevent—

(A) an individual who (without regard to his service with an advisory committee) is a full-time employee of the United States, or

(B) an individual who immediately before his service with an advisory committee was such an employee, from receiving compensation at the rate at which he otherwise would be compensated (or was compensated) as a full-time employee of the United States.

Expense recommendations.

(e) The Director shall include in budget recommendations a summary of the amounts he deems necessary for the expenses of advisory committees, including the expenses for publication of reports where appropriate.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF AGENCY HEADS

SEC. 8. (a) Each agency head shall establish uniform administrative guidelines and management controls for advisory committees established by that agency, which shall be consistent with directives of the Director under section 7 and section 10. Each agency shall maintain systematic information on the nature, functions, and operations of each advisory committee within its jurisdiction.

Advisory Committee Management Control Officer, designation.

(b) The head of each agency which has an advisory committee shall designate an Advisory Committee Management Officer who shall—

(1) exercise control and supervision over the establishment, procedures, and accomplishments of advisory committees established by that agency;

(2) assemble and maintain the reports, records, and other papers of any such committee during its existence; and

(3) carry out, on behalf of that agency, the provisions of section 552 of title 5, United States Code, with respect to such reports, records, and other papers.

81 Stat. 54.

ESTABLISHMENT AND PURPOSE OF ADVISORY COMMITTEES

SEC. 9. (a) No advisory committee shall be established unless such establishment is—

(1) specifically authorized by statute or by the President: or

(2) determined as a matter of formal record, by the head of the agency involved after consultation with the Director, with timely notice published in the Federal Register, to be in the public interest in connection with the performance of duties imposed on that agency by law.

Publication in Federal Register.

(b) Unless otherwise specifically provided by statute or Presidential directive, advisory committees shall be utilized solely for advisory functions. Determinations of action to be taken and policy to be expressed with respect to matters upon which an advisory committee reports or makes recommendations shall be made solely by the President or an officer of the Federal Government.

(c) No advisory committee shall meet or take any action until an advisory committee charter has been filed with (1) the Director, in the case of Presidential advisory committees, or (2) with the head of the agency to whom any advisory committee reports and with the standing committees of the Senate and of the House of Representatives having legislative jurisdiction of such agency. Such charter shall contain the following information:

Charter, filing.

Contents.

- (A) the committee's official designation;
- (B) the committee's objectives and the scope of its activity;
- (C) the period of time necessary for the committee to carry out its purposes;
- (D) the agency or official to whom the committee reports;
- (E) the agency responsible for providing the necessary support for the committee;
- (F) a description of the duties for which the committee is responsible, and, if such duties are not solely advisory, a specification of the authority for such functions;
- (G) the estimated annual operating costs in dollars and man-years for such committee;
- (H) the estimated number and frequency of committee meetings;
- (I) the committee's termination date, if less than two years from the date of the committee's establishment; and
- (J) the date the charter is filed.

A copy of any such charter shall also be furnished to the Library of Congress.

Copy.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE PROCEDURES

Sec. 10. (a) (1) Each advisory committee meeting shall be open to the public.

Meetings.

(2) Except when the President determines otherwise for reasons of national security, timely notice of each such meeting shall be published in the Federal Register, and the Director shall prescribe regulations to provide for other types of public notice to insure that all interested persons are notified of such meeting prior thereto.

Notice. Publication in Federal Register. Regulations.

(3) Interested persons shall be permitted to attend, appear before, or file statements with any advisory committee, subject to such reasonable rules or regulations as the Director may prescribe.

(b) Subject to section 552 of title 5, United States Code, the records, reports, transcripts, minutes, appendixes, working papers, drafts, studies, agenda, or other documents which were made available to or prepared for or by each advisory committee shall be available for public inspection and copying at a single location in the offices of the advisory committee or the agency to which the advisory committee reports until the advisory committee ceases to exist.

81 Stat. 54.

(c) Detailed minutes of each meeting of each advisory committee shall be kept and shall contain a record of the persons present, a complete and accurate description of matters discussed and conclusions reached, and copies of all reports received, issued, or approved by the Minutes.

86 STAT. 775

Certification. advisory committee. The accuracy of all minutes shall be certified to by the chairman of the advisory committee.

81 Stat. 54.
Annual report.

(d) Subsections (a)(1) and (a)(3) of this section shall not apply to any advisory committee meeting which the President, or the head of the agency to which the advisory committee reports, determines is concerned with matters listed in section 552(b) of title 5, United States Code. Any such determination shall be in writing and shall contain the reasons for such determination. If such a determination is made, the advisory committee shall issue a report at least annually setting forth a summary of its activities and such related matters as would be informative to the public consistent with the policy of section 552(b) of title 5, United States Code.

Federal officer or employee,
attendance.

(e) There shall be designated an officer or employee of the Federal Government to chair or attend each meeting of each advisory committee. The officer or employee so designated is authorized, whenever he determines it to be in the public interest, to adjourn any such meeting. No advisory committee shall conduct any meeting in the absence of that officer or employee.

(f) Advisory committees shall not hold any meetings except at the call of, or with the advance approval of, a designated officer or employee of the Federal Government, and in the case of advisory committees (other than Presidential advisory committees), with an agenda approved by such officer or employee.

AVAILABILITY OF TRANSCRIPTS

SEC. 11. (a) Except where prohibited by contractual agreements entered into prior to the effective date of this Act, agencies and advisory committees shall make available to any person, at actual cost of duplication, copies of transcripts of agency proceedings or advisory committee meetings.

"Agency proceeding."
80 Stat. 382.

(b) As used in this section "agency proceeding" means any proceeding as defined in section 551(12) of title 5, United States Code.

FISCAL AND ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Recordkeeping.

SEC. 12. (a) Each agency shall keep records as will fully disclose the disposition of any funds which may be at the disposal of its advisory committees and the nature and extent of their activities. The General Services Administration, or such other agency as the President may designate, shall maintain financial records with respect to Presidential advisory committees. The Comptroller General of the United States, or any of his authorized representatives, shall have access, for the purpose of audit and examination, to any such records.

Audit.

Agency support services.

(b) Each agency shall be responsible for providing support services for each advisory committee established by or reporting to it unless the establishing authority provides otherwise. Where any such advisory committee reports to more than one agency, only one agency shall be responsible for support services at any one time. In the case of Presidential advisory committees, such services may be provided by the General Services Administration.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF LIBRARY OF CONGRESS

Reports and background papers.

SEC. 13. Subject to section 552 of title 5, United States Code, the Director shall provide for the filing with the Library of Congress of at least eight copies of each report made by every advisory committee and, where appropriate, background papers prepared by consultants. The Librarian of Congress shall establish a depository for such reports and papers where they shall be available to public inspection and use.

Depository.

TERMINATION OF ADVISORY COMMITTEES

SEC. 14. (a) (1) Each advisory committee which is in existence on the effective date of this Act shall terminate not later than the expiration of the two-year period following such effective date unless—

(A) in the case of an advisory committee established by the President or an officer of the Federal Government, such advisory committee is renewed by the President or that officer by appropriate action prior to the expiration of such two-year period; or

(B) in the case of an advisory committee established by an Act of Congress, its duration is otherwise provided for by law.

(2) Each advisory committee established after such effective date shall terminate not later than the expiration of the two-year period beginning on the date of its establishment unless—

(A) in the case of an advisory committee established by the President or an officer of the Federal Government such advisory committee is renewed by the President or such officer by appropriate action prior to the end of such period; or

(B) in the case of an advisory committee established by an Act of Congress, its duration is otherwise provided for by law.

(b) (1) Upon the renewal of any advisory committee, such advisory committee shall file a charter in accordance with section 9(c). Renewal.

(2) Any advisory committee established by an Act of Congress shall file a charter in accordance with such section upon the expiration of each successive two-year period following the date of enactment of the Act establishing such advisory committee.

(3) No advisory committee required under this subsection to file a charter shall take any action (other than preparation and filing of such charter) prior to the date on which such charter is filed.

(c) Any advisory committee which is renewed by the President or any officer of the Federal Government may be continued only for successive two-year periods by appropriate action taken by the President or such officer prior to the date on which such advisory committee would otherwise terminate. Continuation.

EFFECTIVE DATE

SEC. 15. Except as provided in section 7(b), this Act shall become effective upon the expiration of ninety days following the date of enactment.

Travel expenses.

“(d)(1) In the case of any handicapped employee (including a blind or deaf employee) traveling on official business, the head of the agency may authorize the payment to an individual to accompany or assist (or both) the handicapped employee for all or a portion of the travel period involved. Any payment under this subsection to such an individual may be made either directly to that individual or by advancement or reimbursement to the handicapped employee.

Payment limitation.

“(2) With respect to any individual paid to accompany or assist a handicapped employee under paragraph (1) of this subsection—

“(A) the amount paid to that individual shall not exceed the limit or limits which the Office of Personnel Management shall prescribe by regulation to ensure that the payment does not exceed amounts (including pay and, if appropriate, travel expenses and per diem allowances) which could be paid to an employee assigned to accompany or assist the handicapped employee; and

5 USC 8101 et seq.

“(B) that individual shall be considered an employee, but only for purposes of chapter 81 of this title (relating to compensation for injury) and sections 2671 through 2680 of title 28 (relating to tort claims).

“(e) This section may not be held or considered to prevent or limit in any way the assignment to a handicapped employee (including a blind or deaf employee) by an agency of clerical or secretarial assistance, at the expense of the agency under statutes and regulations currently applicable at the time, if that assistance normally is provided, or authorized to be provided, in that manner under currently applicable statutes and regulations.”.

(b) The item relating to section 3102 in the analysis of chapter 31 of title 5, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

“3102. Employment of personal assistants for handicapped employees, including blind and deaf employees.”.

(c)(1) Section 604(a)(16)(A) of title 28, United States Code, is amended by striking out “3102” and inserting in lieu thereof “3102(b)”.

Ante, p. 3039.

(2) Section 410(b)(1) of title 39, United States Code, is amended by striking out “3102 (employment of reading assistants for blind employees and interpreting assistants for deaf employees),” and inserting in lieu thereof “section 3102 (employment of personal assistants for blind, deaf, or otherwise handicapped employees).”.

Sec. 2. Section 7(d)(1) of the Federal Advisory Committee Act (5 U.S.C. App.) is amended by striking out “and” at the end of subparagraph (A), by striking out the period at the end of subparagraph (B) and inserting “; and” in lieu thereof, and by adding at the end thereof the following new subparagraph:

“(C) such members—

29 USC 791. Ante, p. 3039.

“(i) who are blind or deaf or who otherwise qualify as handicapped individuals (within the meaning of section 501 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (29 U.S.C. 794)), and

“(ii) who do not otherwise qualify for assistance under section 3102 of title 5, United States Code, by reason of being an employee of an agency (within the meaning of section 3102(a)(1) of such title 5), may be provided services pursuant to section 3102 of such title 5 while in performance of their advisory committee duties.”.

Effective date. 5 USC 3102 note.

Sec. 3. The amendments made by this Act shall take effect sixty days after the date of the enactment of this Act.

Sec. 4. (a) Section 8332 of title 5, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

mendations as he may deem proper as to the best means of preventing such injuries".

(c) The second sentence of section 19(b) of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 (29 U.S.C. 668(b); 84 Stat. 1590) is repealed.

REPORTS BY THE DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

SEC. 111. (a) Section 151(g) of title 23, United States Code (87 Stat. 285), is amended by striking out the third and fourth sentences and inserting in lieu thereof, "No State shall submit any such report to the Secretary for any year after the second year following completion of the pavement marking program in that State."

Memorandum for the Heads of Executive Departments and Agencies

Subject: Management of Federal Advisory Committees

As you know, advisory committees are a major part of the President's Private Sector Initiative. They strengthen the partnership between the Federal Government and the private sector. I believe it is essential that private citizen expertise be used more effectively and prudently in our effort to make the Federal Government truly responsive and cost-effective.

In the President's transmittal to the Congress of the Tenth Annual Report on Federal Advisory Committees, he expressed the conviction that the management of advisory committees could be improved and made more cost-effective, producing an annualized cost savings of at least 10 percent while increasing the benefits of these committees to the government and the public. To meet this goal, I am recommending that you personally review the management of your agency's advisory committees in accordance with the guidelines on the enclosure.

These actions should be taken as soon as possible. They will contribute significantly to our effort to reduce the cost of the Federal Government while promoting volunteerism and preserving a critical Federal-private sector relationship.

In addition to these actions, GSA is trying to simplify the paperwork and reporting requirements associated with statutory requirements for managing advisory committees. GSA is supporting legislation to change the reporting cycle from calendar year to fiscal year. This will enable GSA to conduct the annual report and annual review concurrently, reducing the amount of time your staff spends during the year preparing reports on committee management. I also would like to solicit your additional suggestions for changes, legislative or otherwise, to improve advisory committee management.

AGENCY: National Archives and Records Service, General Services Administration.

ACTION: Interim rule, with comments invited prior to final rulemaking.

SUMMARY: This interim rule provides administrative and interpretive guidelines and management controls for Federal agencies concerning the implementation of the Federal Advisory Committee Act, as amended (5 U.S.C. App. I) (hereinafter "the Act"). In a previous issue of the Federal Register, GSA published a proposed rule on the management of Federal advisory committees and requested comments. The proposed rule was intended to provide Federal agencies with guidance and instructions for implementing the Act. Comments received have been considered in formulating this interim rule, which also has been reorganized to include new policy guidance to Federal agencies. Comments are invited on this interim rule prior to its publication as a final rule.

DATES: Effective date: April 28, 1983. Comments must be received by: July 27, 1983.

ADDRESS: Comments should be submitted to the Special Assistant to the Archivist (NX), National Archives and Records Service, Washington, DC 20408, Attention: FPMR Comments.

Comments will be available for examination at the Committee Management Secretariat, Room G-5, 9th Street and Pennsylvania Ave., NW., Washington, DC.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ron Martinson, Special Assistant to the Archivist, Committee Management Secretariat, (202) 523-4884.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

GSA's authority for administering the Act is contained in section 7 of the Act and Executive Order 12024, (42 FR 61445, 3 CFR, 1977 Comp., p. 158). Under Executive Order 12024, the President delegated to the Administrator of General Services all the functions vested in the President by the Act, as amended, except that of reporting annually to the Congress, and redelegated to the Administrator the responsibility for the preparation of the annual report required by section 6(c) of the Act.

Originally, the responsibility for all matters relating to advisory committees was placed in the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), which issued Circular A-63 (March 27, 1974) and A-63 Transmittal Memoranda 1, 4, and 5.

In light of GSA's experience in administering the Act, GSA is issuing this interim rule, which consolidates many features of these OMB Circulars with existing GSA reporting requirements. The rule also provides additional procedures and guidance for Federal agencies.

Prior Comments

GSA issued an advance notice of proposed rulemaking (44 FR 66852, November 21, 1979) and a notice of proposed rulemaking (45 FR 55769; August 21, 1980). As a result of the proposed rule, 23 comments were received, and all have been carefully considered in developing this interim rule.

One of the major issues raised by commenters was the extent of applicability of the Act. Some commenters believe, as a matter of general policy, that advisory groups which are not formally structured, which do not have a continuing existence, which meet to deal with specific issues, and whose meetings do not constitute an established pattern of conduct should not be covered under the Act. One commenter asserted that the case law does not preclude administrative interpretation of the Act in limiting the definition of "Advisory committee" and also limiting coverage of "ad hoc groups." Another commenter favored a specific exemption for "ad hoc groups," based on Marblestone, (The Coverage of the Federal Advisory Committee Act, 35 Federal Bar Journal, 119). These comments were received before the decision in National Resources Defense Council v. Edwards, 2 GDS ¶ 82,070 (D.D.C., 1981). This rule reflects our judgment that the exclusion of certain non-recurring meetings from the Act's coverage is fully consistent with the statute, its legislative history, and judicial interpretation. The need for this flexibility was recently recognized in National Anti-Hunger Coalition, et al. v. Executive Committee of the President's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control, et al., Civil Action No. 82-3592 (D.D.C., Feb. 24, 1983). In wrestling with FACA's imprecise language, the court stated, "The Court's task in the absence of clear indications in the statute or its legislative history to the contrary, must be to achieve a common-sense interpretation. Congressional concerns must be accommodated in a manner that produces a constitutional result, in this instance to leave the President with substantial freedom to formulate policy recommendations free from excessive intrusion." The interim rule provides guidance on those meetings between Federal officials and non-Federal individuals which do not fall within the scope of the Act, and for which a charter and consultation with GSA is not required.

Another issue raised was whether the Act applies to committees "utilized" by agencies. One commenter contended that the proposed rule failed to distinguish committees "established" by agencies from those "utilized" by agencies. That commenter also believed that the Cox decision (Center for Auto Safety v. Cox, 580 F.2d 689 (D.C. Cir., 1978)) would make the Act inapplicable to "utilized" committees. GSA has reviewed the Cox decision and does not agree with that interpretation. Subsequent judicial precedent supports GSA's position. The interim rule does define a "utilized" committee.

In providing guidance on those groups and meetings not subject to FACA, and on utilization, GSA is in general agreement with the following recommendation of the Administrative Conference of the United States.

The most serious problems regarding the coverage of FACA have involved the applicability of the Act (a) to groups convened by agencies, on an ad hoc basis, without formal organization or structure or continuing existence, to obtain views on particular matters of immediate concern to the agency, and (b) to privately established groups whose advice is "utilized" by an agency.

a. Uncertainty as to the applicability of FACA to one-time or occasional meetings between ad hoc groups and government officials has tended to discourage useful contacts with the private sector. It is impractical to require such meetings to conform with the Act's requirements regarding chartering, advance notice, and structure of the committee. The Administrative Conference believes that the Act is not applicable to ad hoc, unstructured, noncontinuing groups and that GSA's guidelines should make this clear. Coverage of such groups would not further the purposes of the Act.

b. The conference believes that the definition of "advisory committee" is limited to committees either established by government action or affirmatively supported and "utilized" by the government through institutional arrangements which amount to the adoption of the groups as a preferred source of advice. GSA's guidelines should make this clear.

Thus, under the interim rule, the President or Federal official would "utilize" a committee when that individual recognizes, uses, or intends to use the committee as a preferred source of advice on specific, identified government policy within that individual's scope of responsibility. Such committees, although they may be informal, have an organizational structure, a stable membership and, generally, a continuing existence. They meet to present recommendations developed by that committee, as distinguished from meetings whose attendees respond as individuals.

While this interim rule provides guidance and examples of meetings with groups of individuals which are not subject to the Act, agencies are cautioned that the group can become subject to the Act if a pattern or "track record" develops whereby an agency seeks advice from the group in such a way that it becomes a preferred source of advice.

Questions were raised as to when all the requirements of the Act apply to subcommittees. One commenter suggested a clarification of the definition of subcommittee, so that the establishment of subcommittees is not used to circumvent the principles of the Act.

Another commenter, however, suggested that a subcommittee is not required to consult and charter separately if it has functions related to the functions of the parent committee, and reports to the parent committee. The Court's reasoning in National Anti-Hunger Coalition v. Executive Committee supports the latter recommendation by emphasizing that the Act's requirements apply to committees which provide advice and recommendations directly to the President or Federal official, and as opposed to the parent committee. Therefore, the requirements for consultation and chartering of subcommittees which appear in § 101-6.1007(a)(3) apply when a subcommittee functions independently of the parent committee such as reporting directly to the President or agency official rather than to the parent committee.

Another commenter, on behalf of a consortium of State and local interest groups, requested an administrative exemption from FACA coverage for State and local officials and their representatives. Although this comment has merit, GSA has concluded this exemption would require amendment of the Act.

One commenter suggests that there be a definition of "meeting" so it would be clear when an agency must comply with procedures under the Act. It is GSA's position that informal meetings or gatherings of advisory committee members in which substantive committee business is discussed are subject to the provisions of the Act. GSA recognizes the administrative difficulty in this area and has concluded that the sponsoring agency can best determine whether a specific gathering of advisory committee members constitutes an advisory committee meeting. GSA believes, however, that meetings of two or more advisory committee members convened to gather information or conduct research for the committee to analyze relevant issues and facts, or to draft option papers for consideration by the advisory committee do not constitute a meeting of the advisory committee subject to the requirements of the Act, National Anti-Hunger Coalition v. Executive Committee, supra.

Several commenters raised questions as to GSA's role in the establishment of advisory committees. Some commenters objected to the requirement for GSA concurrence before an agency head can establish, use, or renew an advisory committee under general agency authority.

We recognize the sensitive nature of this particular issue, that is, the role to be played by GSA in the establishment of an advisory committee. GSA is fully aware that an agency head, not GSA, "determines as a matter of formal record" (after consultation with the Administrator) that the establishment of an advisory committee is "in the public interest in connection with the performance of duties imposed on that agency by law."

However, GSA is responsible for "all matters relating to advisory committees" (5 U.S.C. App. I) and a meaningful rather than a pro forma consultation role is necessary to fulfill this responsibility. This conclusion is reinforced by the language in sec. 9(a)(2) of FACA, which provides that an advisory committee cannot be established until the consultation process has taken place. In the absence of specific direction in either FACA or its legislative history as to what precisely is meant by the word "consultation," it is incumbent on GSA to determine the parameters of this process.

We have concluded to follow the consultative process as it has been performed, in the beginning by OMB and then by GSA. GSA will, therefore, continue the practice of giving notification of "concurrence/nonconcurrence" in consultations received from agencies.

We do not view or interpret the words "concur/nonconcur" as implying a veto power by GSA over a determination which properly rests in the head of another agency. Rather, we interpret the word "concur" as meaning that GSA agrees the establishment of a particular committee is in accord with the terms and spirit of FACA. Conversely, a nonconcurrence would indicate GSA's opinion that the establishment of a committee is not in accord with FACA.

GSA also believes that its notification of "concurrence/nonconcurrence" to an agency head is a logical way to complete the consultation process. Such notification is GSA's means of letting the agency head know that the consultation process has been fulfilled.

In the final analysis, a nonconcurrence by GSA would not legally prevent an agency from establishing a particular committee. However, GSA in discharging its oversight function of advisory committees intends to prepare and submit periodic reports to the President, OMB, and the Congress. Our nonconcurrence in any advisory committee, therefore, would be included in these reports.

GSA also intends to watch for situations in which agencies might redefine or restructure advisory committees in such a way as to exclude them from the Act's coverage and requirements. GSA will analyze these situations to determine if an agency is elevating form over substance to disguise an advisory committee which should comply with the Act. If this is the case, GSA will recommend that such groups are chartered and operate in accordance with the Act. In situations where GSA and the sponsoring agency cannot resolve the matter, GSA will identify in future reports the groups for which a charter has been recommended and no action has been taken.

Other commenters suggest that if GSA had not replied to an agency consultation letter by the end of a specific review period, GSA concurrence would be implied. We have not included this suggestion in this rule on the grounds that it is not practical. When GSA receives an agency consultation letter, it gathers pertinent information to assess the need for the committee. Occasionally, certain information is not available or provided within a specified time period. To allow a committee to come into being without that information would not be in the public interest. This interim rule provides that GSA will respond to an agency consultation letter within 15 days, if possible.

Another commenter raised the question of the role of the OMB budget examiner in the consultation process. The budget examiner's role has been integral to the consultation process since it began. When the function was transferred to GSA, OMB continued to make available the assistance of budget examiners in the consultation process.

Several commenters objected to language requiring that agencies maintain complete documentation on their advisory committees in a single location on the basis that such a requirement was administratively excessive and unreasonable. Most of the commenters on this issue suggest that GSA's language follow the language in the Act. GSA agrees and has eased this requirement.

One commenter asked that the regulation prohibit dual and multiple committee memberships in which one person serves on more than one committee in one of more agencies. That commenter believed that such multiple memberships should be discouraged in the interest of providing access by a broader number of citizens to membership on advisory committees. GSA believes that, if necessary, agencies should deal with this issue in their own regulations and procedures.

Some commenters suggested that a definition of "Independent Presidential Advisory Committee" be included in order to make clear which Presidential advisory committees receive administrative support from the Administrator of General Services. GSA agrees with this suggestion and has included a definition of an independent PAC. The duties of the Chairperson of an independent PAC are set out separately.

Several comments were made on the organization of the proposed rule and the clarity of certain terms. For example, some suggestions were offered on alternative language to describe "balanced membership." GSA has attempted to clarify in this interim rule the guidelines for balanced membership. The rule describes balance in terms of specific function to be performed by a particular committee. This is consistent with the language of National Anti-hunger Coalition v. Executive Committee, supra.

Additional Instructions

Pursuant to section 7(d) of the Act, the Administrator after study and consultation with the Director, Office of Personnel Management, is to establish guidelines with respect to uniform fair rates of pay for comparable services for members, staffs, and consultants of advisory committees. The consultation process with OPM has taken place.

Consistent with the intent of Congress and the President to control the costs of administering advisory committees, the interim rule contains a provision which states that unless otherwise required by law, or when necessary to obtain balanced membership or a particular level of technical expertise, no member of an advisory committee shall receive compensation for his or her services. In other words, unless an exception applies, compensation shall be set at zero.

GSA believes that a sufficient number of citizens of all backgrounds and qualifications can be found to provide advice and recommendations to the Federal Government through voluntary service on advisory committees.

The interim rule does provide for the reimbursement of necessary travel expenses and per diem, as well as a mechanism where agencies may engage consultants to serve as members of advisory committees when this is necessary to acquire certain technical expertise or balanced membership that cannot be satisfied solely through the appointment of noncompensated members. However, it is the responsibility of each agency to make a good faith effort to meet its membership requirements on a noncompensated basis. GSA in its oversight responsibility will include membership information in program reports and recommendations which it prepares on Federal advisory committees. The interim regulation contains no changes to present methods used by agencies regarding compensation of consultants or staff under OPM and OMB procedures.

The rules have also been amended to reflect the change in the annual agency reporting requirements from a calendar year to a fiscal year cycle brought about by Pub. L. 97-375.

Executive Order 12291

The General Services Administration has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule for purposes of Executive Order 12291 of February 17, 1981, because it will not result in an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more, will not cause a major increase in costs to consumers or others, and will not have significant adverse effects. The General Services Administration has based all administrative decisions on this proposed rule on adequate information concerning the need for and consequences of this proposed rule. GSA has also determined that the potential benefits to society from this proposed rule far outweigh the potential costs, has maximized the net benefits, and has chosen the alternative involving the least net cost to society.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

These regulations are not subject to the regulatory flexibility analysis or other requirements of 5 U.S.C. 603 and 604.

Effect on Other Directives

This rule replaces OMB Circular A-63 (March 27, 1974) and A-63 Transmittal Memoranda 1, 4, and 5 which have been rescinded by OMB.

Subpart 101-6.10—Federal Advisory Committee Management

§ 101-6.1001 Scope.

(a) The following regulations define the policies, establish minimum requirements, and provide guidance to agency management for the establishment, operation, administration, and duration of advisory committees subject to the Federal Advisory Committee Act, as amended. Reporting requirements which keep the Congress and the public informed of the number, purpose, membership, activities, and cost of these advisory committees are also included.

(b) The Act and these regulations do not apply to advisory meetings or groups listed in § 101-6.1004.

§ 101-6.1002 Policy.

The policy to be followed by Federal departments, agencies, and commissions, consistent with the Federal Advisory Committee Act, as amended, is that an advisory committee shall be:

(a) Established only when it is essential to the conduct of agency business. Decision criteria would include whether committee deliberations will result in the creation, elimination, or change in regulations, guidelines, or rules affecting agency business; whether the information to be obtained is already available through another advisory committee or source within the Federal Government; whether the committee will make recommendations resulting in significant improvements in service or reductions in cost; or whether the committee recommendations will provide an important additional perspective or viewpoint impacting on agency operations;

(b) Terminated whenever the stated objectives of the committee have been accomplished; the subject matter or work of the committee has become obsolete by the passing of time or the assumption of the committee's main functions by another entity within the Federal Government; or the agency determines that the cost of operation is excessive in relation to the benefits accruing to the Federal Government;

(c) Balanced in its membership in terms of the points of view represented and the functions to be performed; and
(d) Open to the public in its meetings except in those circumstances where a closed meeting shall be determined proper and consistent with the Act.

§ 101-6.1003 Definitions.

"Act" means the Federal Advisory Committee Act, as amended, 5 U.S.C. App. I.

"Administrator" means the Administrator of General Services.

"Advisory Committee" subject to the Act means any committee, board, commission, council, conference, panel, task force, or other similar group, or any subcommittee or other subgroup thereof, established by statute, or established or utilized by the President or any agency official for the purpose of obtaining advice or recommendations on issues or policies which are within the scope of his or her responsibilities.

"Agency" has the same meaning as in section 551(1) of Title 5 of the United States Code.

"Committee member" means an individual who serves by appointment on an advisory committee and has the full right and obligation to participate in the activities of the committee, including voting on committee recommendations.

"Independent Presidential advisory committee" means any Presidential advisory committee not assigned by the President, or the President's delegate, or by the Congress in law, to an agency for administrative and other support and for which the Administrator of General Services may provide administrative and other support on a reimbursable basis.

"Presidential advisory committee" means any advisory committee which advised the President. It may be established by the President or by the Congress, or used by the President in the interest of obtaining advice or recommendation for the President.

"Secretariat" means the General Services Administration's Committee Management Secretariat.

"Staff member" means any individual who serves in a support capacity to an advisory committee.

"Utilized" (or used), as referenced in the definition of "Advisory Committee" of this section, means a committee or other group composed in whole or in part of other than full-time officers or employees of the Federal Government with an established existence outside the Federal Government which the President or agency official(s) adopts, such as through institutional arrangements, as a preferred source from which to obtain advice or recommendations on a specific issue or policy within the scope of his or her responsibilities in the same manner as that individual would obtain advice or recommendations from an established advisory committee.

§ 101-6.1004 What are examples of advisory meetings or groups not covered by the Act or this regulation?

(a) Any committee composed wholly of full-time officers or employees of the Federal Government;

(b) Any advisory committee specifically exempted by an Act of Congress;

(c) Any advisory committee established or utilized by the Central Intelligence Agency;

(d) Any advisory committee established or utilized by the Federal Reserve System;

(e) The Advisory Committee on Intergovernmental Relations;

(f) Any local civic group whose primary function is that of rendering a public service with respect to a Federal program, or any State or local committee, council, board, commission, or similar group established to advise or make recommendations to State or local officials or agencies;

(g) Any meeting initiated by the President or one or more Federal officials for the purpose of obtaining advice or recommendations from one individual;

(h) Except with respect to established advisory committees:

(1) Any meeting with a group initiated by the President or one or more Federal official(s) for the purpose of exchanging facts or information; or

(2) Any meeting initiated by a group with the President or one or more Federal official(s) for the purpose of expressing the group's view, provided that the President or Federal official(s) does not use the group as a preferred source of advice or recommendations;

(i) Any committee which is established to perform primarily operational as opposed to advisory functions, except that such committee may be covered by the Act if it becomes primarily advisory in nature. It is the responsibility of the administering agency to determine whether such a committee is primarily operational. If so, it would not fall under the requirements of the Act and this regulation, but would continue to be regulated under relevant laws, subject to the direction of the President and the review of the appropriate legislative committees; or

(j) Any meeting initiated by a Federal official(s) with more than one individual for the purpose of obtaining the advice of individual attendees and not for the purpose of utilizing the group to obtain consensus advice or recommendations.

§ 101-6.1005 By what authority may an advisory committee be established?

An advisory committee may be established in one of four ways:

(a) By the President by Executive Order.

(b) By law where the Congress specifically directs the President or an agency to establish it;

(c) By law where the Congress authorizes but does not direct the President or an agency to establish it. In this instance, an agency head shall follow the procedures provided in § 101-6.1007; or

(d) By an agency under general agency authority in Title 5 of the United States Code or under other general agency-authorizing law. In this instance, an agency head shall follow the procedures provided § 101-6.1007.

§ 101-6.1007 How does an agency head establish an advisory committee?

(a) In establishing or using an advisory committee, the head of an agency shall comply with the Act and this subpart, and shall—

(1) Prepare a proposed charter for the committee which includes the information listed in section 9(c) of the Act; and

(2) Submit an original and one copy of a letter to the Administrator proposing to establish or use, reestablish, or renew an advisory committee. The letter shall include the following information:

(i) An explanation of why the committee is essential to the conduct of agency business and in the public interest;

(ii) An explanation of why the committee's functions cannot be performed by the agency, another existing advisory committee, or other means such as a public hearing; and

(iii) A description of the agency's plan to attain balanced membership. For purposes of obtaining balance, agencies shall consider for membership a cross-section of interested persons and groups with demonstrated professional or personal qualifications or experience to contribute to the functions and tasks to be performed. This shall not be construed to limit the participation of any individual where such participation is necessary to obtain divergent points of view that are relevant to the business of the advisory committee. The letter shall be accompanied by two copies of the proposed charter.

(3) The requirements of paragraphs (a)(1) and (a)(2) of this section shall apply for any subcommittee of a chartered advisory committee, whether its members are drawn in whole or in part from the parent advisory committee, which functions independently of the parent advisory committee such as by making recommendations directly to the agency rather than for consideration by the chartered advisory committee.

(b) The Administrator will review the proposal and notify the agency head of concurrence or nonconcurrence within 15 days of receipt, if possible.

(c) Upon receipt of the Administrator's notification, the agency head shall notify the Administrator in writing that either:

(1) The advisory committee is being established. The filing of the advisory committee charter as specified in § 101-6.1013 shall be considered appropriate written notification in this instance. The agency head shall then comply with the provisions of § 101-6.1009 for an established advisory committee; or

(2) The advisory committee is not being established. In this instance, the agency head shall also advise the Administrator if the agency head intends to take any further action with respect to the proposed advisory committee.

§ 101-6.1009 What responsibilities does an agency head have for an established advisory committee or subcommittee as specified in § 101-6.1007?

(a) The agency head shall:

(1) File the charter as specified in § 101-6.1013;

(2) Issue agency regulations or guidelines as may be necessary to operate and oversee the advisory committee;

(3) File required documents;

(4) Publish required notices in the Federal Register;

(5) Designate a Committee Management Officer for the agency;

(6) Appoint a Designated Federal Official for each advisory committee;

(7) Ensure the opportunity for public participation as required;

(8) Ensure that detailed minutes are kept of each advisory committee meeting;

(9) Ensure that certain rates of pay are justified;

(10) Submit required reports; and

(11) Terminate the advisory committee when appropriate.

(b) The agency head should:

(1) Not later than the initial meeting of an advisory committee, submit to committee members, committee staff, consultants, and appropriate agency management personnel a written statement of the purpose, objectives and expected accomplishments for the committee.

(2) Solicit in writing or in a formal meeting at least annually the views of the committee members on the effectiveness, activities, and management of the committee, including recommendations for improvement. Comments received should be reviewed by the agency head or senior policy official responsible for the committee to determine whether improvements or corrective action is warranted. Copies of such recommendations should be retained until the committee is terminated or renewed.

(3) Involve key management personnel of the agency whose interests are affected by the committee in committee meetings, including reviewing reports and establishing agendas.

(4) Limit membership on advisory committees to 25 members for committees with an agency-wide mission and 12 members for committees with a more narrowly defined function or specialized area of interest. An agency head may authorize additional members for a committee when the agency head determines that such additional members are necessary to the function of the committee or to achieve balanced membership.

(5) Periodically but not less than annually review the level of agency staff support dedicated to advisory committees to ensure that expenditures are justified in consideration of committee activity and the benefits accruing to the Government.

(6) Monitor the attendance and participation of advisory committee members and consider replacing any member who has missed a substantial number of scheduled committee meetings.

(7) Establish meeting dates and distribute agendas and other meeting materials well in advance.

§ 101-6.1011 What are the responsibilities of the chairperson of an independent Presidential advisory committee?

The Chairperson shall comply with the Act and this regulation and shall—

(a) Determine with the Administrator or his or her delegate the role of the designated Federal Official;

(b) Designate a Committee Management Officer for the committee; and

(c) Fulfill the responsibilities of an agency head as specified in paragraphs (a)(1), (3), (4), (7), (8), and (10) of § 101-6.1009.

§ 101-6.1013 What are the charter filing requirements?

No advisory committee may operate, meet, or take any action until its charter has been filed as follows:

(a) Advisory committee established, used, reestablished, or renewed by an agency. The agency head shall file—

(1) The charter with the standing committees of the Senate and of the House of Representatives having legislative jurisdiction of the agency;

(2) A copy with the Secretariat; and

(3) A copy with the Library of Congress, Exchange and Gift Division, Federal Documents Section, Federal Advisory Committee Desk, Washington, DC 20540.

(b) Advisory committee specifically directed by law or authorized by law. Procedures are the same as in paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) Presidential advisory committee. When either the President or the Congress establishes an advisory committee which advises the President, the responsible agency head or, in the case of an independent Presidential advisory committee, the President's designee, shall file—

(1) The charter with the Secretariat;

(2) A copy with the Library of Congress; and

(3) If specifically directed by law, a copy with the standing committees of the Senate and of the House of Representatives having legislative jurisdiction of the agency or of the independent Presidential advisory committee.

§ 101-6.1015 What advisory committee information must be published in the Federal Register?

(a) Committee establishment, reestablishment, or renewal.—(1) A notice in the Federal Register is required when any advisory committee, except a committee directed by law or established by the President, is established, reestablished, or renewed. Upon receiving notification of the completed review and concurrence in the committee from the Administrator, the agency head shall publish a notice in the Federal Register that the committee is being established, reestablished, or renewed, and for a new committee such notice shall also include a statement describing the nature and purpose of the committee and an affirmation that it is necessary and in the public interest.

(2) Establishment and reestablishment notices shall appear at least 15 days before the committee charter is filed, except that the Administrator may approve less than 15 days when requested for good cause by the agency head. The 15-day notice requirement does not apply to committee renewals.

(b) Committee meetings.—(1) The agency head or the chairperson of an independent Presidential advisory committee shall publish at least 15 days prior to an advisory committee meeting a notice in the Federal Register which includes:

(i) The exact name of the advisory committee as chartered;

(ii) The time, date, place, and purpose of the meeting;

(iii) A summary of the agenda; and

(iv) A statement whether all or part of the meeting is open to the public or closed, and if closed, the reasons why, citing the specific exemptions of the Government in the Sunshine Act (5 U.S.C. 552b) as the basis for closure.

(2) In exceptional circumstances, the agency head or chairperson of an independent Presidential advisory committee may give less than 15 days notice, provided that the reasons for doing so are included in the committee meeting notice published in the Federal Register.

§ 101-6.1017 What are the duties of the agency Committee Management Officer?

(a) The Committee Management Officer is designated by the agency head or by the chairperson of an independent Presidential advisory committee and his or her name, agency address, and phone number given to the Secretariat.

(b) The Committee Management Officer shall—

(1) Discharge the responsibilities enumerated in section 8(b) of the Act;

(2) Maintain in a single location a complete set for the charters and membership lists of each of the agency's advisory committees;

(3) Maintain information on the nature, functions, and operations of each of the agency's advisory committees; and

(4) Provide information on how to obtain copies of minutes of meetings and reports of each of the agency's advisory committees.

§ 101-6.1019 What are the duties of the Designated Federal Official?

The agency head, or in the case of an independent Presidential advisory committee, the Administrator, shall designate a full-time Federal employee to be the Designated Federal Official for the advisory committee, who shall—

(a) Attend the meetings;

(b) Adjourn the meetings when he or she determines that adjournment is in the public interest, and

(c) For agency-established advisory committees:

(1) Approve or call the meeting of the advisory committee;

(2) Approve the agenda; and

(3) Chair the meeting when so determined by the agency head.

§ 101-6.1021 How may the public participate in advisory committee meetings?

The agency head, or the chairperson of an independent Presidential advisory committee, shall ensure that—

(a) Each advisory committee meeting is held at a reasonable time and in a place reasonably accessible to the public;

(b) The meeting room size is sufficient to accommodate advisory committee members, committee or agency staff, and interested members of the public;

(c) Any member of the public is permitted to file a written statement with the advisory committee; and

(d) Any member of the public may speak at the advisory committee meeting if the agency's regulations or guidelines so permit.

§ 101-6.1023 What is the procedure for closing an advisory committee meeting?

(a) To close all or part of a meeting, a duly authorized official acting on behalf of the committee shall submit a request to the agency head, or, in the case of an independent Presidential advisory committee, the Administrator or his delegate, at least 30 days prior to the scheduled meeting date, citing the specific provisions of the Government in the Sunshine Act (5 U.S.C. 552b) which justify the closure. The agency head, or, in the case of an independent Presidential advisory committee, the Administrator, may waive the 30-day requirement when a lesser period of time is requested and justified by the duly authorized official or chairperson.

(b) As required by the Government in the Sunshine Act, the general counsel of the agency, or in the case of an independent Presidential advisory committee, the General Services Administration Counsel, shall review all requests to close meetings.

(c) If the agency head, or in the case of an independent Presidential advisory committee, the Administrator or the person to whom such authority is delegated by the agency head or Administrator, determines that the request is consistent with the Government in the Sunshine Act and the Federal Advisory Committee Act, he or she shall issue a determination that all or part of the meeting may be closed.

(d) The agency head, or the chairperson of an independent Presidential advisory committee, shall:

(1) Make a copy of the determination available to the public upon request; and
 (2) Publish the meeting notice in the Federal Register, including the reasons why all or part of the meeting is closed, citing the specified exemptions used from the Government in the Sunshine Act.

§ 101-6.1025 Are minutes required at advisory committee meetings?

The agency head or, in the case of an independent Presidential advisory committee, the chairperson, shall ensure that detailed minutes of each advisory committee are kept. The minutes must include—

- (a) Time, date, and place;
- (b) A list of the following persons who were present:
 - (1) Advisory committee members and staff;
 - (2) Agency employees; and
 - (3) Members of the public who present oral or written statements;
- (c) An estimated number of other members of the public present;
- (d) An accurate description of each matter discussed and the resolution, if any, made by the committee of such matter; and
- (e) Copies of each report or other document received or issued by the Committee.

§ 101-6.1027 How are advisory committees terminated?

Any advisory committee shall automatically terminate not later than 2 years after it is established, reestablished, or renewed, unless—

- (a) Its duration is otherwise provided in law;
- (b) It is renewed; or
- (c) The President or agency head terminates it before that time.

§ 101-6.1029 How are advisory committees renewed?

(a) Advisory committees established by the President may be renewed by appropriate action of the President and the filing of a new charter.

(b) Advisory committees specifically directed by law:

- (1) Which terminate under the provisions of section 14 of the Act may be reestablished by an agency head, provided that the agency head complies with the provisions of § 101-6.1007; or
- (2) Whose duration extends beyond 2 years shall require a new charter to be filed every 2 years after the date of enactment of the law establishing the committee. If a new charter is not filed, the committee is not terminated, but may not meet or take any action.

(c) Advisory committees authorized by law or established or used by an agency: At least 30 but not more than 60 days before the committee terminates, an agency head who intends to renew a committee shall comply with the provisions of § 101-6.1007.

§ 101-6.1031 When should an advisory committee charter be amended?

(a) Committees established by the President or specifically directed by law. When the President by Executive order or the Congress by law changes the authorizing language which has been the basis for establishing an advisory committee, the agency head or chairperson of an independent Presidential advisory committee shall—

- (1) Amend those sections of the current charter affected by the new Executive order or law; and
- (2) File the amended charter as specified in § 101-6.1013.

(b) Agency-authorized committees. The charter of an agency-authorized advisory committee may be amended when an agency head determines that the existing charter no longer accurately reflects the goals or procedures of the committee. Changes may be minor, such as revising the name of the advisory committee, or may be major dealing with the basic objectives or composition of the committee.

(1) To make a minor amendment to a committee charter, an agency head shall:

- (i) Amend the charter language as necessary, and
- (ii) File the amended charter as specified in § 101-6.1013.

(2) To make a major amendment to a committee charter, an agency head shall:

- (i) Amend the charter language as necessary,
- (ii) Submit the proposed amended charter with a letter to the Administrator requesting concurrence in the amended language and an explanation of why the changes are essential and in the public interest. The Administrator or his or her delegate will give notice to the agency head of concurrence or nonconcurrence in the request within 15 days of receipt of the request, if possible; and
- (iii) File the amended charter as specified in § 101-6.1013.

(c) Renewals. Amending any existing advisory committee charter does not constitute renewal of the committee under § 101-6.1029.

§ 101-6.1033 When should advisory committee members and staff receive compensation and expense reimbursements for committee activities?

(a) Committee members. Unless specifically required by law, agencies shall not compensate advisory committee members for their service on an advisory committee. In the exceptional case where an agency head is unable to meet the need for technical expertise or the requirement for balanced membership solely through the appointment of noncompensated members, the agency head may contract for the services of a specific consultant who may be appointed as a member of the advisory committee. In such a case, the agency head shall follow the procedures set forth in paragraph (b) of this section. This paragraph (a) shall apply to any committee member appointed after May 15, 1983. No committee member shall be compensated other than as allowed in paragraph (b) of this section after September 30, 1983.

(b) Consultants. Prior to hiring a consultant to an advisory committee, the agency head must determine that the expertise or viewpoint to be offered by the consultant is not otherwise available without cost to the agency. When an agency head hires a consultant, the compensation may not exceed the maximum rate of pay authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109. Hiring of consultants shall be in accordance with OMB Circular A-120 and applicable statutes, regulations, and Executive Orders.

(c) Staff members. An agency may fix the pay of each advisory committee staff member at a rate of the General Schedule, General Management Schedule, or Senior Executive Service in which the Staff member's position would appropriately be placed (5 U.S.C. Chapter 51). An agency may not fix the pay of a staff member at a rate higher than the daily equivalent of the maximum rate for GS-15, unless the agency head has determined that under the General Schedule, General Management Schedule, or Senior Executive Service classification system, the staff member's position would appropriately be placed at a grade higher than GS-15. This determination must be reviewed annually by the agency head.

(1) In establishing rates of compensation, the agency head shall comply with applicable statutes, regulations, and Executive Orders.

(2) A staff member who is a Federal employee shall serve with the knowledge of the Designated Federal Official and the approval of the employee's direct supervisor. If a non-Federal employee, the staff member shall be appointed in accordance with applicable agency procedures, following consultation with the advisory committee.

(d) Travel expenses. Advisory committee members and staff members, while engaged in the performance of their duties away from their homes or regular places of business, may be allowed travel expenses, including per diem in lieu of subsistence, as authorized by section 5703 of title 5, United States Code, for persons employed intermittently in the Government service.

(e) Special services. While performing advisory committee duties, an advisory committee member who is blind or deaf or who qualifies as a handicapped individual may be provided services by a personal assistant for handicapped employees if the member—

(1) Qualifies as a handicapped individual as defined by section 501 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (29 U.S.C. 784); and

(2) Does not otherwise qualify for assistance under 5 U.S.C. 3102 by reason of being an employee of an agency.

(f) Noncompensated services. Nothing in this section prevents an agency from accepting the noncompensated or reimbursed services of a member, consultant, or staff member of an advisory committee.

(g) Exclusions.—(1) Nothing in this section prevents any person who (without regard to his or her service with an advisory committee) is a full-time Federal employee from receiving compensation at the rate at which he or she otherwise would be compensated as a full-time Federal employee.

(2) Nothing in this section prevents any person who immediately before his or her service with an advisory committee was a full-time Federal employee from receiving compensation at the rate at which he or she was compensated as a full-time Federal employee.

(3) Nothing in this section affects a rate of pay or a limitation on a rate of pay that is specifically established by law or a rate of pay established under the General Schedule classification and pay system in chapter 51 and chapter 53 of title 5, United States Code.

§ 101-6.1035 What reports are required for advisory committees?

GSA will periodically issue instructions to agencies regarding reporting requirements and procedures. Included in those requirements, each agency shall file a report on a fiscal year basis providing requested program, financial, and membership information to GSA. This information shall be used by GSA for preparing program recommendations and status reports on advisory committee matters, and for assisting the President in preparing and submitting a fiscal year report to the Congress. The membership list for each advisory committee shall be updated quarterly with notification furnished to GSA of all new vacancies and appointments during the period.
